

MIKE ALLSOP

USANA Ambassador

Everest mountaineer, Adventurer & Air New Zealand Captain

Date of Birth: 10 August, 1969

Discipline: Mountaineering

Mike takes the Mike is an Air New Zealand Captain and has been mountaineering for over 12 years. He has climbed Mount Kilimanjaro in Africa and Mount Alpamayo in the Peruvian Andes. In 2007, Mike became one of just a small number of New Zealand adventurers to reach the summit of Mt Everest unguided, which is a huge achievement!

In his latest adventure – The 777 Project – Mike will run seven marathons in seven continents in seven days. The venture will take him to places as diverse as the Falkland Islands, Chile, Los Angeles, London, Casablanca, Hong Kong and back to home soil in Auckland!

USANA's products are great for Mike and they're a great choice for you too!

'I began taking USANA products five months ago and have been quite astounded with the results. I have always used some sort of multivitamin supplement on all my adventures and expeditions. When I changed to USANA, I couldn't believe the results. I felt so good, and so different! I had more energy during my training and throughout the day. Without a shadow of doubt USANA has enabled me to train hard and recover faster. USANA is my foundation block which I trust and know I can depend upon.'

For more information contact: