Thin Love

Renée Zellweger is ready to play Bridget Jones again. But before she steps into her control-top hose, she'll be slipping on some padding! A source reveals that the pin-thin star has refused to gain weight for the role this time around. "She'll put on a few pounds, nothing more," the source says. Six years older than boyfriend Bradley Cooper, Renée wants to continue looking her best. "She's over the moon in love, and she's determined to keep it that way!"

Tan Ban

The producers of 90210 want Jessica Lowndes to lighten up! The starlet has been told to stop tanning, since higher-ups prefer her pale. Cast-mate AnnaLynne McCord giggled about the bronzing brouhaha at The Suite Life: Sky Bar Emmy Suites in L.A. on Sept. 18. "I can get as dark as I want!" she gloated, scooping up armfuls of Fake Bake self-tanner.

Blind Spot

Andrea Bocelli has one of the world's most famous voices, but his face isn't as recognizable. After the blind opera singer ate with a friend at L.A.'s Madero on Sept. 16, the valet gave him the car keys! "Andrea made a joke of it, feeling his way over to the driver's side," a source tells Star. Everyone laughed, and the awkward moment ended on a high note. *
